Product Description

Product Description
The Food Waste Disposer represents a revolutionary appliance that transforms kitchen refuse into valuable fertilizer within a span of 4 to 8 hours. It is designed with a user-friendly one-button operation, and its advanced mechanism allows it to automatically calibrate the working duration in accordance with the moisture level of the waste. This innovation not only streamlines kitchen chores but also substantially lessens the time dedicated to cleaning, all while making a significant contribution to environmental conservation.

The operational process of the machine unfolds in three distinct phases. The initial stage is drying, where high-temperature heat is applied to extract the majority of the moisture from the waste, ensuring its proper decomposition. Subsequently, the grinding phase commences. The robust blades housed within the bucket rotate at a rapid pace, pulverizing the waste into a fine consistency suitable for conversion into fertilizer. The final step is cooling. Once the grinding is complete, the temperature of the bucket is regulated downward, permitting immediate and safe removal of the bucket from the machine.
